

Aurora at Sunfest

The Spanish jazz band Aurora plays at the 2018 Sunfest music festival.

Aurora brings together a group of talented young musicians from the Higher Music Education School of Taller de Músics. The young cantaor Pere Martínez, along with Max Villavecchia, Joan Carles Marí, Javi Garrabella and José Manuel Álvarez undertake this new musical adventure that will travel through the most popular songs of the composer Manuel de Falla to evolve towards languages that transgress the traditional sonorities, and explore the fusion with other aesthetics.

Sunfest is an annual festival of food, culture, art and music. During Sunfest, music from various cultures is performed on the main stage in the park, and on four other stages. Craft vendors sell their objects and handcrafts, and festivalgoers can also taste food from all different ethnic backgrounds represented at the Festival.
