

Spanish Reflections

Spanish classical pianist Javier Perianes, winner of Spain's 2012 National Music Prize, joins the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Spanish music director Gustavo Gimeno in a solo performance of Manuel de Falla's "Fantasia Baetica" and more.

Gustavo Gimeno, whose tenure as the tenth Music Director of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra began in 2020/21, conducts the program featuring Manuel de Falla's technically challenging piano work, Fantasia Baetica, which incorporates elements of Andalusian folk music, gypsy, Middle-Eastern, Indian, and influences from his time in to capture the spirit of flamenco.

Pianist Javier Perianes also introduces a piece written for him by fellow countryman Francisco Coll, the contemporary fantasia for piano and orchestra Ciudad sin sueño (Sleepless City).

The program concludes with Falla's iconic Suites Nos. 1 and 2 from The Three-Cornered Hat, employing fandango and fiery flamenco orchestration from his highly successful ballet based on a comic novella.

Gustavo Gimeno is a prominent Spanish conductor who currently holds the position of Music Director of the Luxembourg Philharmonic Orchestra and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. He has been praised for reinvigorating the artistic profile of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra since his appointment in 2020/21, engaging with musicians and audiences, and overseeing renewed community engagement.
